We invite you to use the library and encourage your students to do the same. Here’s a brief update on what’s happening at the library.

Learn About the Library and Get Flex Credit!

Do you want to get more flex credit? Of course! We all do.

We’re pleased to announce that the library now offers a number of short but informative online tutorials that can be viewed for flex credit. View the videos when and where you please. You’ll learn about the library, become a better researcher, and get flex credit. Track how long you spend watching the videos and practicing what you’ve learned. Then claim the flex credit on your flex attendance record under Step 5, Additional Activities.

You can find the videos at http://libguides.arc.losrios.edu/flex. You’ll also find a link for “Flex activities” on the library’s “For Faculty” page.

Questions? Please ask your librarian. You’ll find their contact info to your left.

Articles
When you come across a citation for an article you’d like to read, there are roughly 1400 places you’d need to check to see if we have it. Ughh. Let us eliminate the guesswork and hassle. You find a citation for an article you’d like to read, you send the citation (or as complete a citation as you have) to us in an email, and we’ll track it down and get it to you. If we have it, we’ll get the article to you within two business days. If we don’t have it, we’ll place an interlibrary loan request for the article and get it to you as soon as we can (interlibrary loans can take anywhere from 3 days to 3 weeks, depending on what libraries have what you’re looking for). Just send an email to mccuskd@arc.losrios.edu.

You’ll find more info on the library’s “For Faculty” webpage.

You’ve heard of lolcats, but did you know about lollibrarians?
