Associate Degrees for Transfer

A.A.-T. in Political Science

The Associate in Arts degree in Political Science for Transfer provides a clearly articulated curricular track for students who wish to transfer to a CSU campus, while also serving the diverse needs of students interested in the breadth and depth of the field of Political Science. Additionally, this degree exposes students to the core principles and practices of the field in order to build a foundation for their future personal, academic, or vocational paths.

The Associate in Arts degree in Political Science for Transfer provides students with a major that fulfills the general requirements of the California State University for transfer. Students with this degree will receive priority admission with junior status to the California State University system. The Associate in Arts degree in Political Science for Transfer (AA-T) may be obtained by the completion of 60 transferable, semester units with a minimum 2.0 GPA, including (a) the major or area of emphasis described in the Required Program outlined below (earning a C or better in these courses) and (b) either the Intersegmental General Education Transfer Curriculum (IGETC) or the California State University General Education-Breadth Requirements.

This course analyzes the U.S. government's historic origins, philosophical and theoretical justification, federal structure, and constitutional structures. The course studies the rights and liberties of individuals as articulated in the U.S. Constitution and federal court decisions. Further, it examines and describes the procedural aspects of the U.S. and California political systems including amending the U.S. and California constitutions, holding elections, campaigning, legislating, executing and adjudicating law. The course examines individual and group political behavior in voting, interest groups, political parties, and the media. It provides an analysis of contemporary problems and issues and looks at factors that shape politics and policy-making including diversity, political culture, political socialization, political ideologies, and public opinion. Finally, it also describes California state and local governments' constitutional base, structures and functions, political process, problems and issues, and federal-state relations. This course is not open to students who have completed POLS 481.

Student Learning Outcomes

Upon completion of this course, the student will be able to:

- describe the nature of government and its theoretical foundations and functions.
- relate American political thought, the Constitution, and governing institutions to one another.
- identify and explain the structures and functions of the United States and California governments prescribed by their respective constitutions.
- compare and contrast the federal, state and local governments with respect to their political foundations, functions, and contemporary problems.
- explain the civil liberties and civil rights of individuals as articulated in the United States Constitution and federal court decisions.
- identify and evaluate political processes within the United States and California, including the development of political ideologies, voting behavior and other forms of political participation.
- evaluate the relationship between the governing process and public policy at both the state and federal level.
- discuss and analyze contemporary political issues and operations in the United States and California.
- analyze the role of culture, diversity, and ideology in shaping public opinion and public policy in the United States and California.

POLS 302 Introduction to Government: Foreign
